NEW CONGRESS DRIVEN OUT OF SESSION HALL WHEN THEY OPPOSE BOLSHEVIK Organization.

Sinking of Former German Vessels May Aid in Opening Up the Danubian—Italian Front Quiet.

Russia's constituent assembly had been in session but a few hours when it was dissolved, early Sunday, by the executive committee of the congress of workmen's and soldiers' delegates. It is reported it will be succeeded by the workmen's and soldiers' congress which has been supporting the Lenin government. This solution came after the Bolshevik adherents in soviet defeated in an attempt to gain control of the assembly. Bolshevik troops now guard the deserted assembly place and Premier Lunacharsky announces he will not permit the delegates to reassemble. Whether the social revolutionist majority will submit to the Bolshevik order without protest is not yet clear.

Austrian Strikes.

With the Pan-Germanists in the political ascendancy there are periodic strikes in Austria, more than one hundred thousand have quit work in the vicinity of Vienna as a protest against Germanism and in favor of peace. The Vienna correspondent of one paper says the Austrian strike movement demands a speedy peace with Russia and has "grown too strong to be stemmed by force."

At the Dardanelles.

British ships have evaded the escort with the former German warships Goeben and Breslau. In an action at the entrance to the Dardanelles the Breslau was sunk and the Goeben, suffering serious damage, was beached. The British losses were two monitors, one commanded by a nephew of Earl Kitchener and whose fate is unknown. The former German ships have been the most stay in naval operations against the Dardanelles since they took refuge from pursuing British and French vessels.

Much damage had been done to Russian transports and supply ships in the Black Sea by the two vessels.

Other Fronts.

Increased artillery and aerial activity on the western front has been accompanied by more frequent raids on both sides. There has been no attack to date and there is little to indicate any serious break in the winter active.

On the Italian front there has been only artillery fighting, most marked in Monte Altone and along the Po.

German Planes.

Sixteen German airplanes were brought down in France by French and British airmen.

Many towns have been bombed Oostend, one of the important submarine bases on the Belgian coast.

Proclamation Issued.

Petrograd, Jan. 21.—The Bolshevik government has issued a proclamation to the people of Petrograd, saying in part:

"Enemies of the people spread the rumor that revolutionary workmen and soldiers have fired on a peaceful demonstration. This is done for the purpose of causing trouble in the ranks of the workers, causing excess and inciting against the revolutionary leaders."

"It has been proved that the authors of these rumors fired at sailors, soldiers and remain calm, and assuring them their order is being maintained by sailors, soldiers and workers."

Trotzky's Agent.

Copenhagen, Jan. 21.—Foreign Minister Trotzky, before leaving Brest-Litovsk, told Dr. Von Kuehmann, the German foreign minister, according to a telegram from Berlin, that he was going to Petrograd for a week to report to the congress of workmen and sailors. He is reported as having his departure in no manner would indicate a discontinuance of the negotiations, but they would continue during his absence.

Names Delegates.

Petrograd, Jan. 21.—The Ukrainian party of Kharkov, controlled by the Bolsheviks, rival of the Rada of Kiev, has designated three delegates to go to the conference at Brest-Litovsk. The delegates came to Petrograd to meet with the Bolshevik authorities who extended them recognition and sent them to Brest-Litovsk with instructions to confer with the other Ukrainian delegates to determine who actually represents the Ukrainian.

Only fifteen Ukrainian members out of possible one hundred attended the opening of the short-lived constituent assembly.

Nothing Definite.

London, Jan. 21.—The constituent assembly, the Petrograd correspondent of the Daily News says, has nothing of the character of a serious meeting of patriots preparing to work together for the creation of a new Russia. There is no essential difference between the socialist revolutionaries and the Bolsheviks, their opposition being merely a difference in the way they want to do it.

Marquette, Wis., Jan. 21.—Russia, judging from Friday's meeting, is fairly unanimous regarding what it wants. The question is what is to be done and who is to do it."

A general strike was declared at Budapest on Friday when the entire transport system came to a standstill. While all parts of the Dual Empire strike and demonstrations are reported. The food situation and the question of peace were the sole subjects of discussion at the sitting of the Budget committee at the Austrian chamber of deputies on Friday. Talks Against All Republicans as Working to Undermine the Government as Far as Possible for Political Purposes.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, Jan. 21.—Characterizing former President Roosevelt as "the most potent and willing friend of the kaiser" and "the most sedition man of consequence in America," Senator Stone, addressing the senate, today, charged that republican leaders are engaged in a steady effort to move politics out of the war. Their object is to take the government over into their own hands, by participation in the conduct of the war, he declared.

Names Republicans.

Beside Colonel Roosevelt, the Missouri senator named Chairman Willcox, of the Republican national committee, and Senator Penrose, among republican leaders, as his witnesses to the political plot he alleged.

Are Partisan.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Because of the demands of government contractors and others for permission to work their women employees more than ten hours a day on account of the new holiday order, Chairman George P. Hembrecht of the industrial commission took the matter up with President Wilson today to ascertain if the extension should be given as a wartime necessity.

The Wisconsin law limits the hours of employment for women to ten. Recently the president sent word to all industrial commissions of the country advising them to maintain the present standards relating to hours of employment for women. Now the holiday has been declared, the labor administration and employers are demanding to know whether they will not be permitted to work women eleven or twelve hours a day for the remaining days of each week.

No action will be taken by the industrial commission until word is received from the federal department.

High School Tournament.

Appleton, Wis., Jan. 21.—A large loving cup, representing the championship of Wisconsin, will be given to the winner of first place in the 14th annual high school basketball tournament, to be conducted at Lawrence college, March 29, 1918.

The tournament is to be held in the gymnasium which accommodates 5,000 people. Last year's tournament was won by Whittemore, Green Bay. Rapids got second place and Monroe third. Superior won the banner awarded to the team presenting the neatest appearance.

Paper Mills Closed.

"Of all men," the Missouri senator continued, "Roosevelt is most responsible for what he demands. He does his work unwillingly and I fear his pro- and anti-war policies will be the same."

I charge that Theodore Roosevelt is the most potent and willing friend of the kaiser in America.

Ardently Directed.

The republicanians cited, Senator Stone said, "have been ardently directed."

Calling attention to the elections next fall of the entire house membership and many senators, Mr. Stone said two years later the presidential election would follow.

"I especially protest against and denounce the effort put forward under the guise of patriotism and the influence of this congress and the present administration to excite a wider feeling of discontent and lack of confidence and to spread the poison of this impression broadcast. Plainly this sort of movement is afoot."

Penrose's Part.

After referring to Senator Penrose and Chairman Willcox of the republican national committee as "star witness in this case,"

"I now introduce my star witness, General Penrose himself, whom I characterize as the most sedition man of consequence in America. The heart of this man is afame with insatiate ambition and he runs amuck. His chief thought is not to help the government, but always to help himself."

W. B. Clubbs, manager of the Park Falls woolen mill, said "Park Falls went to the wire to get the borderers set again. Our town subscribed for so many liberty bonds that our bank deposits went away down: yet we still raised forty per cent in deposits after six months."

Want Dry State.

DRILLS AND DANCE ON FRIDAY EVENING

State Guard and Two High School Companies Will Drill Friday Evening.—Social Dance Will Follow Drills.

In order to follow the fuel regulations of the federal administration, and to conserve all the coal possible, the regular drills for the Sixteenth Separate Company, Wisconsin State Guards, and the two high school companies, in addition to the regular weekly dance given by the State Guard, which were scheduled for Tuesday evening at the armory, have all been postponed until Friday evening.

The postponement is merely a conservative measure so that no unnecessary fuel will be used to heat the hall over night when all three affairs can't be held on the same evening.

Due to the fact that the orders issued by Harry A. Garfield, federal fuel administrator, would prevent the holding of a dance Tuesday evening, the drill was decided to postpone the drills until Friday evening.

Following the drills the regular weekly social dance will be held, to which all are invited. It is expected that many will avail themselves of the opportunity of witnessing the two drills and they remain for the dance.

Hatch's jazz orchestra will furnish the inspiration for the dancing.

The Caledonian society had originally planned a dance to be held in the armory with Hatch's orchestra as the attraction.

But later the plans were indefinitely called off. All those who planned to attend the dance given by the Caledonian society are invited to attend the State Guard dance.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl sixteen years of age. The other night I came home from a party with my boy friends. I love him dearly. He is one of my greatest aims. He is to be beautiful and use it to his advantage. This happened to be an all night affair, but we had chaperones. It was a New Year's party. The whole night he was with another girl and left me alone. The next morning instead of taking me home, he took the other girl home. It hurt my feelings because the girl is one of my best friends. He is going to call me up some night this week, so please tell me whether to scold him or what to do.

I earn on an average of $4 a week and only work a small portion of the time. Although my parents are quite wealthy I am expected to clothe myself like other common girls. I think that he was decidedly rude when he took you to the New Year's party, and after such treatment you will not consider going with him again. Be patient and refuse to have anything more to do with him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls fifteen years old.

(1) Do you think we are too young to go with boys?

(2) Do you think we are too young to do our hair up on top of our heads? If she wears her hair in dips?

(3) Would a girl get a tough name if she went to a skating rink?

(4) There are two boys we never met who made a date with us. We did not keep it. They asked us for another date and we refused. Do you think it would be all right for us to go with them?

(5) If a boy asks to kiss you is it a sign he loves you?

(6) You are far too young.

(7) A girl is tough it makes her look suitable for this season.

(8) Trousers and navy blue will be worn in spring suits. With your coloring you ought to be able to wear either shade.

I would suggest, little girl, that if you are desirous of being useful in life that you set some definite aim. Do not be content to work a small part of the day if you have the whole day to yourself. Get out and make for you to attend a commercial school and prepare yourself for a business life. Uncle Sam is going to need his women badly and if you are ready you can be put to service within a year in the capacity of keeping business going while our boys are at war.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl

HEALTH TALKS

THE VALVE LEAKS.

Valves in the heart are membranous flaps so arranged as to close after the auricle or ventricle pumps its blood out and prevent any of the blood leaking back again. The valves are covered with the same sort of serious membrane as the thick covering of the lungs and lines the chest wall and the heart. The membrane is sometimes invaded by bacteria which enter the blood stream from the throat, from inflamed or suppurating gums, or from the lining of the nose. A cold settling on the heart, as the ancients might have said, Endocarditis, doctors call it—mentioning inflammation of the lining of the heart.

Another membrane is popularly known as inflammatory rheumatism, is notoriously complicated by acute endocarditis. Often the endocarditis gives no pain, no sign appreciable to the patient; only by daily examination of the heart can the doctor detect the trouble. But even though it be so trifling at the time, when the inflammation begins to involve the large heart valve there is always the likelihood of roughening and distortion of the delicate valve after the illness has passed away and been forgotten, when scar tissue slowly contracts and deforms the valve. That prevents perfect closure of the valve, and so permits some backward flow of blood backward through each valve.

Many individuals have such valvular disease without being aware of it until they happen to submit to an insurance examination or an examination for military service.

A few individuals actually do not want to be informed of the fact that they have a defect, but usually, based upon their unwarmed popular fear of sudden death from heart disease. Heart Disease is perhaps the rarest of all known causes of sudden death. People with heart disease have all the warning they can possibly need that something has gone wrong with the heart.

Most of the young men in whom valvular incompetency is discovered accidentally are pretty healthy specimens. No reason why they shouldn't be.

Do Good If You Can, But Do No Harm.

Some time ago you gave a formula for a safe cough medicine, and I clipped the item, but I have mislaid it. If you will repeat the formula I shall be grateful, for we are in hard circumstances this winter and cannot afford to buy cough medicines ready made.

ANSWER.—Dissolve 2 ounces of citrate of soda in half a pint of water (freshly boiled). Then add about one-quarter of fluid extract of liquorice. When cool, add ten or fifteen drops of chloroform and enough water to fill up a pint bottle; or add an ounce of chloroform water and fill the bottle with cooled boiled water. Dose, teaspoonful every hour or two, for adults; half-spoonful every four hours for children. (The chloroform is a preservative, and may be omitted if small quantities are prepared at one time.)

The Daily Novelette

VACILLATING VERA.

Synopsis of preceding chapters: The nineteenth time Verna Veneer resumes Garwood Corners, he decides that she really means it, and enlists in the army as a common captain. Too late Verna realizes that she really loves him. Life is changed for her by his absence—even her knitting field full of wounded soldiers, she does not taste the same. She loses weight by the pound, and finally becomes a real Garwood and quits for France on the Geewinger. She experiences many adventures, and is captured eighteen times by the Huns, escaping each time by pretending to swoon and then jumping up and running away as soon as her captors, in search of water, have turned their backs. Thus she becomes known throughout the entire world as "the swooning minx." One day, while ministering to a battle-field full of wounded soldiers, she

A. B. C.: In the smaller cities, here evening dress is not always worn at evening entertainments, one may properly inquire of the host or hostess, when one receives an invitation, as to the costume the guests are supposed to don for the occasion. The degree of formality is determined by the number of guests, and some hostesses wish all their entertainments to be taken seriously, and to be honored with evening dress, while others prefer informality. It is the privilege of the hostess to settle the question, if one arises. No guest would care to appear at an evening function in a business suit, to find everybody else in full evening costume, nor vice versa.

hears an unconscious soldier mutter in pitiful tones, "Verma."

"Garwood!" cried Verma. "Open your eyes! Look at me it is your mother!" Oh, you are dying! I shall marry you beside your hospital cot, and at least I can be your widow!"

"Widow nothing!" said a hearty voice. It was Lieutenant Clipp, of the hospital corps, and he went on cheerily. "It's only a case of shock and a slight attack of the stomach muscles. At the worst he'll only have a scar on his chin."

Again, in all their intensity, Verma's doubts returned.

"I hardly think I could bear to marry a man with a scar on his chin," she quavered, and fled.

The next day she changed her mind, but she was never able to find him again, and she both died of broken heart seven years later, victims of a vacillating disposition.

Household Hints

Get Strong on Beans.

From the State War Board, Sammies are growing fat and strong on beans.

Of course they get other foods, too,

but beans have long been a favorite army dish.

Beans are a "hearty food" and when housekeepers come to appreciate the food value of them and the varied ways of using them, this vegetable will appear on American tables many a meatless day.

Soy beans have been used as human food in China for hundreds of years.

They are grown right here in Ohio.

The people believed the stories,

for itself:

Indescribable pathetic conditions.

The unexpected military reverse had struck the nation. Ru-mers of all sorts were in the air.

A vicious propaganda had spread the report that America was not friendly to Italy; that we were not interested in the war and even that we were afraid to antagonize Austria,

as well as Germany.

America apparently had no available means of expression. Congress was not in session. Our army could not act. Fortunately, however, the Red Cross is in a position not only to act immediately to the call of the suffering, but also to carry the mesage of the American people to Italy in the hour of her distress.

"Working in conjunction with our own state department and the Italian government, we used every available means of supply on distribution to assist the ally of our country. Within approximately two weeks after our arrival, we had established warehouses and branch warehouses to supply all important points.

"We opened shelters for homeless women and children.

"We distributed condensed milk to little children.

"We dispatched three emergency workers to a tour of Italy, with five hundred thousand lire in small bank notes to give immediate need where it was needed.

"At the presentation of our first three ambulance sections to the Italian army, through the general of the division, there were represented our state department, the French army, the British army, the Italian Red Cross, and the military sanitary department of the government. As our sections passed through the streets on their way to the front, after the ceremony, the streets were filled with enthusiastic crowds and American flags flew everywhere.

"Whatever else we have done or have failed to do we have raised the American flag from one end of Italy to the other, and our youngsters today are doing their part in helping to hold the flag line."

LETTERS OF TWO WOMEN

by ZOE Beckley

THE BREA KAWAY.

On Train Going East.

My darling Kate! I am writing to you from a train in Los Angeles, left my job in the candy lunchroom, left my home, left my two babies, left Curtis Bond my husband, left my mother-in-law—left everything on earth that I have cared for, except you. And now I am on a train speeded to New York, to see my son and Paul, the only refuge I have on earth!

I don't know whether I shall ever see Curt again. Or my children. I only know that I am striking out blindly and desperately, seeking action, action, as the only remedy I know for a situation grown insupportable.

I scarcely know, Kate, how I ever got here, on this train, clothed and packed apparently sans seme like the other passengers. My heart is in such tumult that feel I am lost.

Receive every attention, however small, with real gratitude which is warmly expressed.

NO QUESTION.

There is no question right now that the war is not three thousand miles away and there is no great haste, as Secretary Baker told the Senate committee, but right here at home Dr. Gage's order for the heatless days has wakened this nation to the stern realization that we are at war as nothing else has since the struggle began.

After denouncing the imperialism of the American war aims the Germans proceed to perfect their plans to seize several hundred thousand square miles of territory.

The red rappers can't get the supplies to soldiers, but they are getting their card catalogs and files of requisition into very handsome shape for visitors.

Although so many of us have consented to observe wheatless and meatless days, it does not appear that the food dealers are having any profitless days.

The American peace terms are considered grossly unfair in Germany, as they don't give the Germans any chance to come over and collect an indemnity from us.

After wondering why the government does not get after the spies, many people accept open mouthed the yarns started by the spies in their own home towns.

The trouble with railroad congestion appears to be that priority tags for freight that was to be moved first, appeared to have been put onto every thing.

Every one testifying before the military affairs investigation committee at Washington proceeds at the outset to deny everything that everyone else has said.

The fact that a man thinks the churches and schools should close up to save fuel does not prove that he is willing for the saloons to shut their doors.

The time to buy winter stuff is now, and the place to buy it is at the store of the merchant who shows his enterprise by advertising in the Gazette.

It will soon be time for that spring drive on the garden, but from the looks of things now it is useless to look at the seed catalogue yet awhile.

Of course the Germans feel that they must have an indemnity for the injuries done them by the unprovoked attack of the wicked Belgians.

Many of the people can't take up any form of war work as it takes all their time to kick about what other people are doing.

Some stores may not have sugar, but they will let you come in and look at the artistic arrangement of fine candies.

TO THE MEN AT HOME.
No war is won by cannon fire alone; The soldier bears the grim and dreary role; He dies to serve the Flag that he has.

His duty is to gain the distant goal, But if the toller in his homeland fair Faither in faith and shrink from every test.

If he be on duty over there,

Loss to the cause is every soldier's best.

The men at home, the toller in the shop,

The keen-eyed watcher of the spinning drill,

Hear to command to vault the trench's top;

They know not what it is to die or kill;

And yet they must be brave and constant, too;

Upon their lies their precious country's fate;

They also serve the Flag as soldiers do.

Tis theirs to make a nation's army great.

You hold your country's honor in your care.

Her glory you shall help to make or muri.

For her, who now her uniform must wear,

Can be no braver soldiers than you are.

From day to day, in big and little deeds,

At bench, or lathe or desk or stretch of soil;

You are the man your country sorely needs!

Will you not give to her your finest toll?

No war is won by cannon fire alone.

The men at home must also share the fight,

By what they are a nation's strength is shown,

The army but reflects their love of right.

Will you not help to hold our battle line?

Will you not give the fullest of your powers,

That victory shall speedily be ours?

Also many women whose soldier boys are still unburt will also have to seek work, their usual income having gone for the present. These also are entitled to the same friendly consideration, as the same liability and willingness to sacrifice exists.

SOLDIERS' RELATIVES.

The Universal Film Manufacturing company issues a circular suggesting that employers when practicable give preference in hiring help to the wives, daughters, and widows of soldiers.

When the sad casualty lists come in, a great many women previously comfortable will find themselves with but meager support. Whatever they get from pensions and insurance will not go far with prices at their sky high level. Many of these women will have children to support.

CLEAN WALKS.

It is now ten days since the last big snow, but sad to relate many a property-owner has not yet seen fit to clean the snow from their walks. They may have a narrow pathway dug out, but the rest is tramped down and the average pedestrian has to plow along on the uneven footing remaking many of the days they followed the plow in childhood. There is a law relative to this condition. Why not invoke it for the sake of those who toll and must walk to and from work? No one should be famished from its enactment.

TWO WHEATLESS DAYS WEEKLY NEW RULING

FLOUR SHORTAGE NECESSITATES
MONDAY AS WELL AS WEDNESDAYS BE OBSERVED
AS WHEATLESS.

PORKLESS SATURDAYS

No Pork Can Be Used Saturdays—
Also Plan One Meatless Meal Daily—Cut Flour and Sugar Sales to Minimum.

Beginning today, Janesville will be required to observe two wheatless days—Monday and Wednesdays, as well as one meatless and one porkless day each week. A bulletin sent this morning by F. L. Clemons, county food administrator, states that the state administration will begin the investigation of hoarding of food supplies which is said to be going on in parts of the state and will prosecute the offenders in the full extent of the law. Heavy penalties or either imprisonment or fine, will be enforced against such persons.

Owing to the serious flour and sugar shortage new rulings have been made which went into effect this morning. Among these new edicts, the clause which states that candy manufacturers will be permitted to use only one-half as much sugar as they are using. Sugar will be sold to consumers only in lots from two to five pounds, and flour can be purchased only a half sack or a sack at a time.

The bulletin which explains the rulings and the reasons which have made them necessary follows:

P. S. The complete program for saving food is going to effect today under orders of Herbert Hoover, United States Food Administrator is as follows:

Wheatless days every Monday and every Wednesday and one wheatless meal EVERY day.

Meatless days every Tuesday and one meatless meal EVERY day.

Porkless days every Saturday. This means pork and all derivatives of pork such as ham, bacon and lard must not be used on Saturdays.

Save fats of all kinds in every possible way and use sugar sparingly. Eat plenty of vegetables, especially potatoes of which we have a large surplus. We ask all citizens of Wisconsin to assist the food administration in having these rules rigidly observed.

Flour and Sugar Situation Critical.

The attention of the Federal Food Administrator for Wisconsin has been called to excessive sales of flour and sugar in certain localities of the state. The sale of these foods should be limited in every case and conform to the following rules:

For Town and City People: Only amounts of from two to five pounds of sugar and from one-half to one sack of flour should be sold to one family at one time.

For Country People: Only amounts of from five to ten pounds of sugar and from one to two sacks of flour should be sold to one family at one time.

The exact amount in each case for each group to be determined by the size of the family. Only in extreme cases should the above rules be deviated from.

Candy Manufacturers: Confectioners are permitted to use only one-half their usual amount of sugar. The use of sugar in candies and soft drinks should be reduced to the minimum.

Licensed Articles.

All flour and products made of wheat, barley, rye, corn and rice; also cotton seed cake, oil and meal; beans and peas; peanut oil and meal; oleomargarine, lard and all shortenings; oils and fats of all kinds for cooking, condensed, evaporated and powdered milk; fresh, canned and packed meats; poultry and eggs; fresh and frozen fish; fresh fruit and vegetables; sugars, syrup and molasses; dried prunes, apples, peaches and raisins; canned peas, beans, tomatoes, corn, salmon, and sardines are included in the list of licensed commodities.

Profits.

The Food Administrator will welcome reports of merchants charging more than ordinary pre-war profits on necessary foods.

Hoarding.

The State Food Administrator should be notified of cases of hoarding quantities of food of any kind in excess of reasonable immediate needs. Such persons will be dealt with according to law. Heavy penalties will be imposed against persons violating these rules. The law says: "Any person who wilfully hoards any necessities shall, upon conviction therefor, be fined not to exceed five thousand dollars or be imprisoned for not more than two years, or both." Persons or firms who wilfully or ignorantly violated this law should at once return surplus supplies to dealers from whom they were purchased. A second offense on the part of the same person will be dealt with drastically.

The State Food Administration asks all patriotic citizens to loyal cooperation in this war program by buying sparingly of food and saving wherever possible to do so.

MAGNUS SWENSON,
Federal Food Administrator.

XXXVII.

"Awake, awake! 'Tis Easter Morn!"
Said the Weathercock on his little tin horn.
And he swing about in the morning breeze
And called to the swallows under the eaves.

Billy Bunny in the old briar Patch
Hopped out of bed and lifted the latch;
"I'm awake, Mr. Weathercock! I'm awake!"
Then he hurried and ate his buckwheat cake;
(And after that he was ready to hunt
For Easter eggs in the elephant's trunk.)

But the elephant's trunk didn't have Any Easter eggs in it, only some green and some clothes and a bag of peanuts and some popcorn, and, oh, just a hirtle of bacon from Santa So Bello. Bunny came down front To see what Mrs. Bunny had done to the trunk until the circus came to town again, and hopped out on the Pleasant Meadow.

It was very early so early that Mr.
Henry Sun was just pecking over the old barn where the Weathercock stood.
"There's where I'm going to hunt
For Easter eggs," cried the little rabbit, "over at the old farm," and away he hopped hoppity-hop, clippity-hop, and by the time he came to the farmyard, All the barnyard folk were up and dressed;

SPITBALL NO LONGER FAVERED IN LEAGUES

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

New York, Jan. 21.—The step taken by the American Association to eliminate the use of the spitball is due to the blaze of part of safety in baseball. The aging John K. Tener, president of the National League; Ban Johnson, president of the American League, and other leaders of the game may yet be arrived in governing pitchers.

Tener was the first to take a stand against the use of the spitball. A pitcher himself, he held that not only was an unnecessary subterfuge, but was insatiable and disgusting to many spectators. Ban Johnson has relieved himself of practically the same sentiments. There are, in fact, only a few magnates who really believe the delivery should be allowed.

American Association pitchers will be watched with interest during the coming season. American Association batting records also will come off for close scrutiny, for it is the contention of foes of the spitball that the delivery interferes with free batting, something a fan wants to see when he pays for entrance to a ball game.

Prizes paid for ball players in recent days put to shame previous attempts to set records in high sums. It used to be that $5,000 was a tremendous price to pay for a ball player.

There was a time not so long ago when Dan Tipton and other cowards were referred to as beauties, with the amount of their purchase hung onto the front end.

And now, Oh, boy! Grover Cleveland Alexander was just sold for the price of a day's battling in Europe. Wally Schang and some of his collaborators in the baseball field just charged hands for a sum that Jess Willard would not sneeze at.

And a magnate who offers less than a fortune nowadays for a ball player is in the piker class.

BADGERS TAKE ON IOWA AT MADISON

Madison, Jan. 21.—After considerable exchange of telegrams the Iowa team and the Badgers will settle their season's basketball dispute at the university's gymnasium this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Iowans played Minnesota Saturday night and stopped at Madison on the return trip. The game was played this afternoon as the Hawkeyes desired to catch an early train for the men are worried over the outcome of their semester exams.

It now looks as if the Badgers would be greatly strengthened next semester as it is almost certain that Knapp, who is well known in Jamesville, will return to school. Knapp is one of the best players that ever entered Wisconsin.

It is also expected that Fladdeos will become eligible next semester.

University Will Not Close.

In spite of the fact that the student body requested that the University be closed for three weeks to conserve fuel, thereby saving at least 3,000 tons of coal, President Van Hise at noon announced that the University would not close. His statement was received with the executive committee of the University. "It is of the highest importance that educational institutions continue their work," said Pres. Van Hise.

Already many steps have been taken to conserve fuel and further steps will be taken. Beginning Monday, Jan. 22, stock, pavilion, the men's gymnasium and the women's gym in Lathrop hall will be closed.

These are large structures which require a vast amount of heat. The heating in the other buildings of the University has already been reduced to 62 degrees F., thereby saving a large amount of coal.

During the examination two weeks, the heat will be concentrated in the smallest number of buildings and the remaining buildings of the University will be closed altogether.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Without a scratch on her face or a single bruise, Edna Purviance, the stoutish pie backstop for Charlie Chaplin, undulated into New York last week. If you remember, Edna is the acrobatic Juno the divine Charlie utilizes as everything from a pin cushion to a springboard in his little dramas.

Since the early film comedy days which rushed in a revival of the Stone Age in the movies, Edna has been playing the toothsome Ophelia to Charlie's pantalooned Romeo.

Edna is vacationing these days. She is being accompanied by Blanche Sweet, who has been inactive in the films of late, and one Adele Rowland.

Edna was asked if Chaplin made her laugh while they were making their comedies.

"Oh, I smile a little," she admitted. "Charlie is very funny. But when we put him on it's all work and very little time to laugh. If I laugh or anybody in the company laughs he gets real mad."

Edna has also revealed the fact that Charlie's favorite flower is the forget-me-not and his favorite author Carlyle.

CAN YOU DO THE FISH FLOP?

The "fish flop" is a new dance originated by the younger set of Bar Harbor after watching Annette Kellerman making "The Queen of the Sea." With Miss Kellerman were about sixty girls who took the part of mermaids. Each wore a fish tail costume. Whenever a mermaid wanted to change position on the rocks or beach it could be accomplished through a series of hops or flops. The inspirational hop and flop has now been converted into a parlor pastime. *

Members of the theatrical colony of Los Angeles have formed a club of boys similar to the Sixty Club of New York. George Beban is the president. The board of governors includes Mark Sennett, Jack Pickford and Julian Eltinge. Some of the important members are Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and Fatty Arbuckle. The boys get together every evening, drink hard cider, eat cookies and eat up like anything. *

Richard Stanton has begun work on a new Fox production at the West Coast studios. Emilie Markey, Frankie Lee and Fanny Midgley are included in the cast. The production is still unnamed. *

Edward Cecil who supported Gladys Brockwell in "Conscience" was for three years sailor on Admiral Dewey's flagship, the Olympia, following the Spanish-American war. Cecil also took up play acting with a wazoo show, touring California lumber camps. *

Robert Louis Stevenson's dearly loved book, "Treasure Island," is to be the next screen vehicle for the Fox film kiddies. Francis Carpenter and Virginia Lee Corbin will play the leads.

It is not strange then, that the Red and Blue has several hundred graduates who now are officers in the German army, arrayed against the United States.

I have only sympathy for them," said Provost Smith in announcing this fact.

Long Live The King

The king lay back and thought. More than anything in the world he loved this boy. But the occasion demanded a strong hand. "You were happy," he said. "You were disobedient, you were causing grave anxiety and distress—and you were happy! The first duty of a prince is to his country. His first lesson is to obey laws. He must

VINOL MAKES GOOD BLOOD

Positive—Convincing Proof

Many so-called remedies for anemia are only so in name. Their makers are afraid to prove their claims by telling what their medicines contain.

The only way to be honest with them is to let them know what they are paying for. Here is the Vinol formula. When the doctor knows what a medicine contains, it ceases to be a "patient" medicine.

R. Paul Lauer and Best Peptones, Iron and Magnesia, Peptones, Iron and Ammonium Chloride, Lime and Soda, Citrate, Phosphates, Cuscatic.

Any doctor will tell you that the ingredients of Vinol, as named above, will enrich the blood and banish anemia and create strength. When the blood is pure and rich and red, the body is strong and robust.

You can prove this at our expense because your money will be returned if Vinol does not improve your health. Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis. Vinol is sold in Bradford by W. J. Smith, and by the best drug stores in every town and city in the country.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—but they are no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

The pleasant taste of this famous 50-year-old remedy is one reason for its remarkable success. The kiddies like it, ask for it, and it does them good. Slightly laxative, too, and keeps them in good condition. Keep it in your medicine closet and give it to the kiddie for all forms of coughs, colds and croup. Just as effective for old folks, too, especially for grippe.

Get it at your druggists.

"Her royal highness?"
"Annundate is a fool," said his majesty. Then, dismissing his daughter with a gesture, "We don't know how to raise our children here," he said impatiently. "The English do better. And even the Germans—"

It is not etiquette to lower one's eyebrows at a king and glare. But General Mettlich did it. He was rather a poor subject. "The Germans have not our problem, sire," he said, and stuck up his mustache.

"No, sire."
"I shall," said the king, "require no promise from you. Promises are poor things to hold to. I leave this matter in your own hands, Otto. You will be published by Miss Brattwaike, and for the next ten days you will not visit me. You may go now!"

Otto got off his chair. He was feeling exceedingly crushed. "Good night, sire," he said. And waited for his grandfather to extend his hand. But the old king lay looking straight ahead, with his mouth set in grim lines, and his hands folded over his breast.

At the door the crown prince turned and bowed. His grandfather's eyes were fixed on the two gold eagles over the door, but the photograph on the table appeared to be smiling at him.

Until late that night General Mettlich and the king talked together. The king had been lifted from his bed and sat propped in a great chair. Above his shabby dressing gown his face showed gaunt and old. In a straight chair facing him sat his old friend and chancellor.

"What it has shown is not entirely bad," said the king, after a pause. "The boy has initiative. And he made no attempt at evasion. He is essentially truthful."

"What it has also shown, sire, is that no protection is enough. When I, who love the lad, and would—when I could sleep, and let him get away, as I did—"

"The truth is," said the king, "we are both of us getting old." He tapped with his gnarled fingers on the blanket that lay over his knees. "The truth is also," he observed a moment later, "that the boy has very few pleasures. He is alone a great deal."

General Mettlich raised his shaggy head. Many years of wearing a soldier's cap had not injured his heavy gray hair. He had bristling eyebrows, white now, and a short, fighting mustache. When he was irritated, or disagreed with any one, his eyebrows went down and the mustache went up.

six months?"

"A year, sire."
"And at the worst?" said the king, with a grim smile. Then, following his own line of thought: "But the people love the boy, I think."

"They do. It is for that reason, sire, that I advise particular caution."

He hesitated. Then, "Sire," he said earnestly, "there is something of which I must speak. The Committee of Ten has organized again."

Involuntarily the king glanced at the photograph on the table.

"Forgive me, sire, if I waken bitter memories. But I fear—"

"You fear?" said the king. "Since when have you taken to fearing?"

"Nevertheless," maintained General Mettlich doggedly, "I fear. This quiet of the last few months alarms me. Dangerous dogs do not bark. I trust no one. The very air is full of sedition."

The king twisted his blue-veined old hands together, but his voice was quiet. "But why?" he demanded, almost frantically. "If the people are fond of the boy, and I think they are, to—carry him off, or injure him, would hurt the cause. Even the terrorists, in the name of a republic, can do nothing without the people."

"The mob is a curious thing, sire. You have ruled with a strong hand. Our people know nothing but to obey the dominant voice. The boy out of the way, the prospect of the Princess Hedwig on the throne, a few demagogues in the public squares—it would be the end."

The king leaned back and closed his eyes. His thin, arched nose looked pinched. His face was gray.

"All this," he said, "means what? To make the boy a prisoner, to cut off his few pleasures, and even then, at any time—"

"Yes, sire," said Mettlich doggedly.

"At any time."

All through the palace people were sleeping. Prince Ferdinand William Otto was asleep, and riding again the little car in the land of delight. So that, turning a corner sharply, he almost fell out of bed.

On the other side of the city the little American boy was asleep also. At that exact time he was being tucked up by an entirely efficient and placid-eyed American mother, who felt under his head to see that his ear was not turned forward. She liked close-fitting ears.

Nobdy, naturally, was tucking up Prince Ferdinand William Otto. Or attending to his ears. But, of course, there were sentries outside his door, and a valet de chambre to run for, and a number of embroidered eagles scattered about on the curtains and things, and a country surrounding him which would one day be his, unless—

"At any time," said General Mettlich, and was grimly silent.

"Well?" inquired the king, after a time. "You have something to suggest, I take it."

The old soldier cleared his throat. "Sire," he began, "it is said that a chancellor should have but one passion, his king. I have two, my king and my country."

The king nodded gravely. He knew both passions, relied on both. And found them both a bit troublesome at times!

The new curate's wife was a very sweet natured and truly kind little soul, and did a great deal of practical good in her husband's parish. During the festive season she decided to give a feast to the aged poor of the district.

All went well, and the old people were having a fine time, when that one old fellow did not seem to be getting on very well with his dinner.

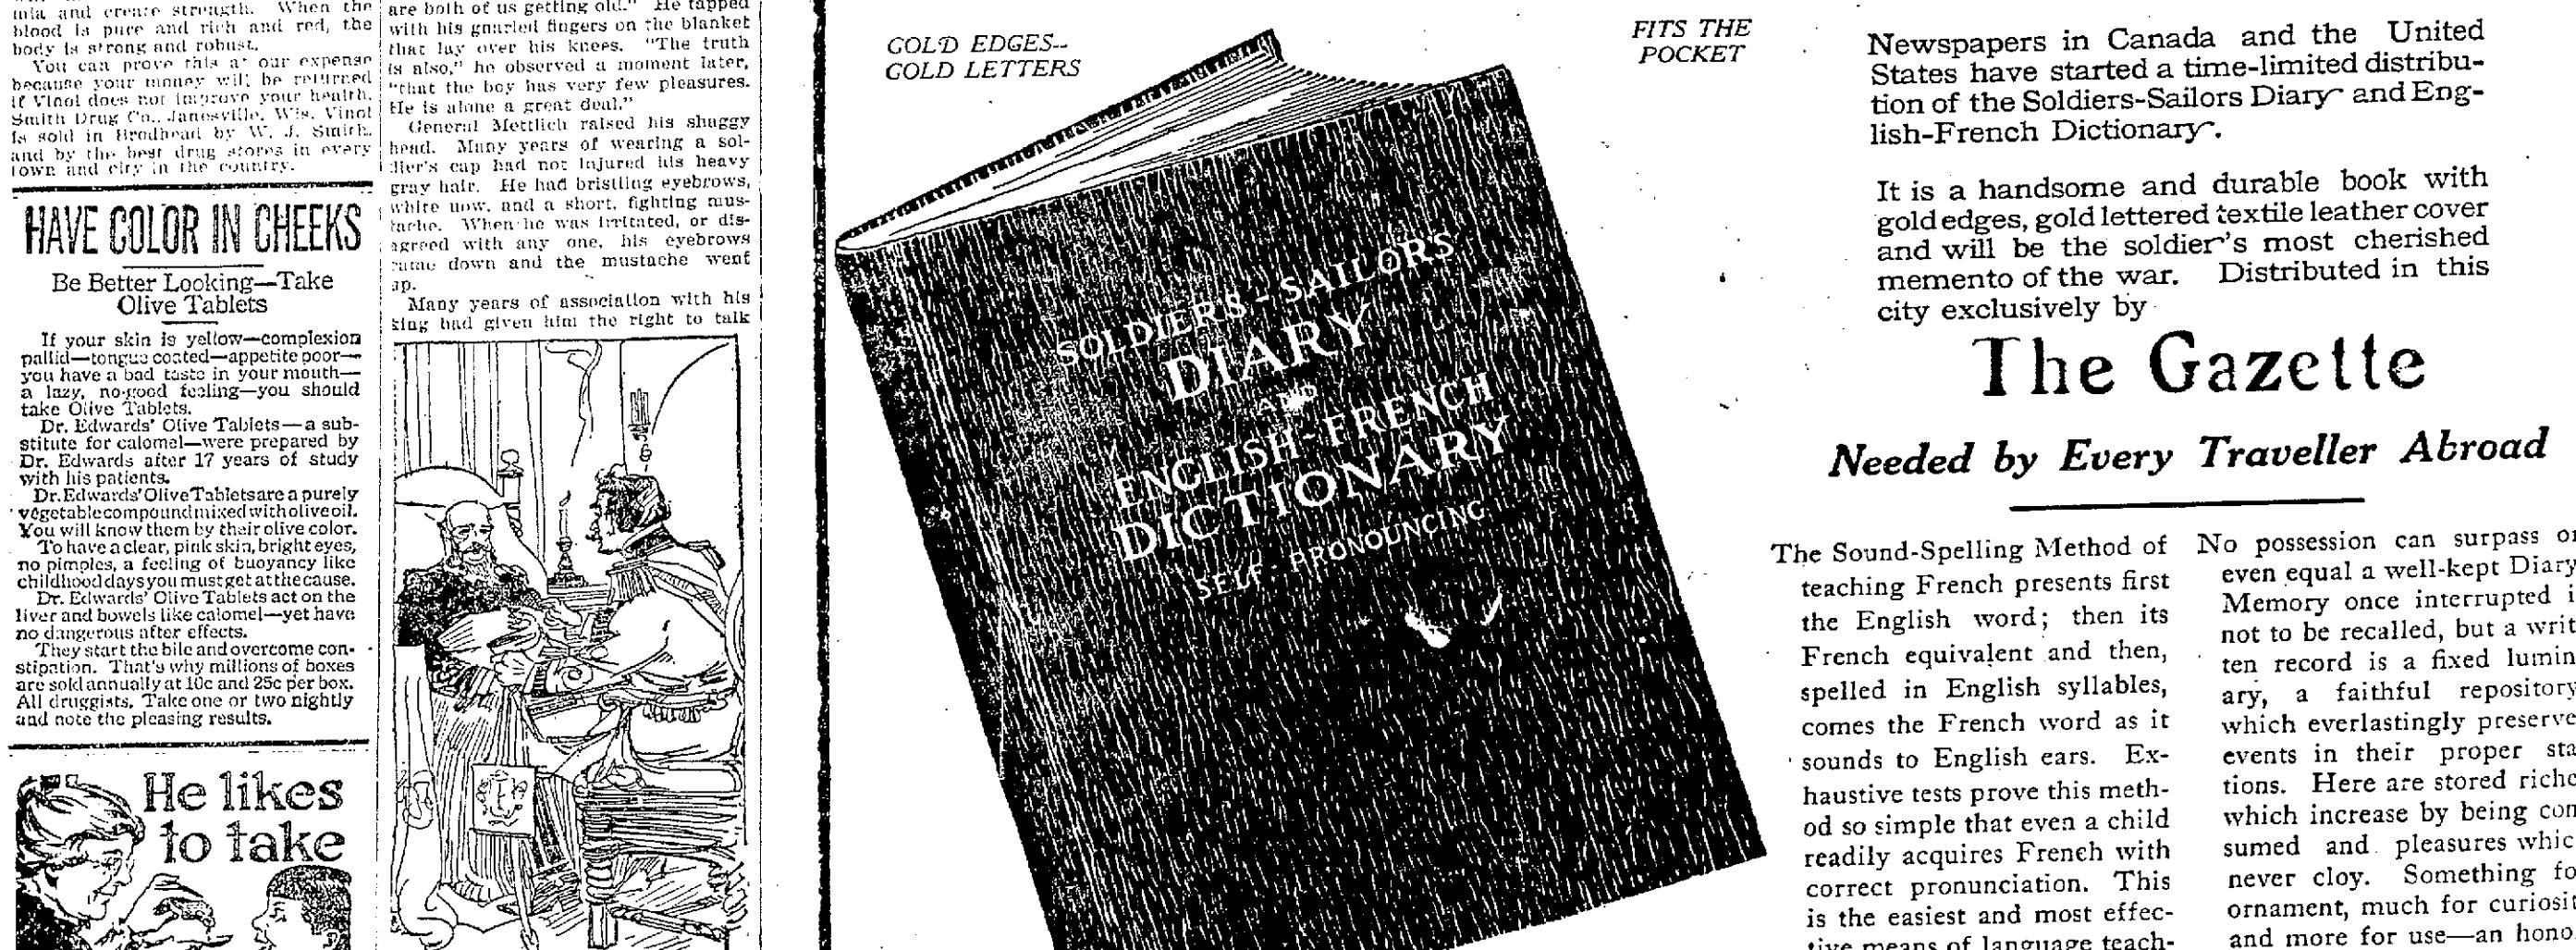

"What's the matter, Mr. Smith?" she asked. "Isn't it cut to your liking?"
